

Commercial helicopters benefit a small number of people and are a nuisance to many people, places and wildlife. They should not be flying on weekends at all, and they should not fly so low. They are a total terror on the Na Pali Coast.

- * Government studies have demonstrated that the higher minimum altitude saves lives;

- * constant noise has been shown to adversely impact human health;

- * Hawaii's wildlife--especially forest birds--are negatively affected by overflight disruptions, from mating problems to abandonment of nests;

- * constant noise in state and national parks can ruin the wilderness experience for hikers and campers;

- * the state and National Park Service should have the ability to restrict or ban air tour flights over sensitive areas.
